Course Description
This course examines the history of India from c. 2500 B.C.E. to c. 1500-1700 C. E. While roughly organized around developments in political history, the course emphasizes the rich diversity of human experience in the form of important economic, social, and cultural developments of this period. Thus, not only will the course cover the rise and fall of civilizations, kingdoms and dynasties, but also the ecological, economic, social, and cultural factors that accompanied and contributed to such changes. One textbook, an epic drama, a book which analyses changing perceptions of India’s past, as well as many “primary sources” -- the writings of people actually living in the periods of history we examine -- will help us to better understand the factors that shaped the pre-modern traditions of South Asia. Even as we seek to understand the past in its own terms, we will try to better understand how our knowledge about this past has been produced. This course will thus highlight competing interpretations of Indian history, and encourage students to examine these interpretations, and evaluate them on the basis on what they have learnt about historical events, personalities, and processes occurring in pre-modern India. Along with familiarizing students with some of the details of an unfamiliar history, the objective of this course is to encourage discussion, debate, and reasoned argumentation supported by evidence.

Course Structure/Approach
The format of the course consists of lectures and informal discussions. Students are encouraged to raise questions and make comments throughout the course. Please note: This course requires extensive use of internet resources.

Course Readings
4. Other REQUIRED readings available on the World Wide Web (WWW) OR on Electronic Reserve available via the course web page.
5. A set of RECOMMENDED readings available on the WWW.

1 Except for one Wednesday each month, when I will be gone for a History Department meeting.
Assessment of Outcomes
The course uses primarily two types of instruments to assess your achievement of the learning objectives listed above: two examinations (25% and 30% of the total points for the course), and two short papers (20% and 25% of the total points for the course, each). Examinations may consist of short answer, essay, and/or map questions to test your breadth of factual details and interpretive insights into Indian history. The papers are designed to test your ability to critically read and think creatively about the material on Indian history, and to be able to present it effectively in appropriate prose. Five percent of the total grade for the course will be determined by the quality and regularity of your participation in the proceedings of the classroom.

Assignments and Exams
I. Term Papers: You will write two short papers between 5 and 7 pages in length in response to specific questions. The first paper will ask you to use the Mahabharata as a primary source for understanding the history of Ancient India. The second paper will ask you to analyze the way in which this history has been re-written over time. While the first paper will ask you to interpret a text written in ancient times, the second will be a more analytical paper focusing on the way in which such texts are rewritten and understood over time. Each paper will count for 20% of the total points for the course.

II. Mid-Term and Final Exams: There will be one final and one mid term exam. The mid term will consist of a map quiz and a number of short answer questions. A list of map locations and topics for short answer questions will be provided in advance of the exam. The mid term will count towards 25% of the total course grade. The take-home final exam may also involve writing out longer essay-type answers to questions. A list of map locations, short answer topics, and essay themes will, again, be handed out in advance of the exam. The final will count toward 30% of the course grade.

Grading System
Grades for the course will be determined according to the following criteria:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assignment</th>
<th>Percentage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Paper One</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paper Two</td>
<td>25%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mid-Term Exam</td>
<td>25%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Final Exam</td>
<td>30%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

TOTAL FOR COURSE: 100%

The grading scale for the course will be as follows:
90%+ = A; 80 - 89% = B; 70-79% = C; 60-69% = D; below 60% = F.

Course Policies
ALL WRITTEN ASSIGNMENTS ARE DUE IN CLASS.
PLEASE NOTE: I do not give extensions, incompletes, or make-up exams, except in cases allowed for by University Policy.

Plagiarism or other forms of academic dishonesty will not be tolerated in any of the assignments, and will result in failing the course. Please consult the section on “Academic Integrity” in the NAU Policy Statements appended to this syllabus for further details. IT IS THE STUDENTS’ RESPONSIBILITY TO FAMILIARIZE HERSELF/HIMSELF WITH THESE MATTERS AS DEFINED BY THE UNIVERSITY.

Attendance and Punctuality
Frequent and repeated absence and/or lack of punctuality will be penalized at my discretion. Whatever your reasons for arriving late or missing a class, it is YOUR RESPONSIBILITY to arrange to meet or call a classmate and find out what happened in that class. I encourage you to form small “study groups” or at least make a “class buddy” you can contact for information about classes missed, study with for the exams, or more generally discuss the proceedings of the class.
In General

I expect you to come to class having done all the required reading and prepared to engage in discussion. I also expect you to be motivated to learn about the subject and to improve your skills as a historian. There is only so much a teacher can do to assist students in the learning process. I will do my best to help you understand more about the subject. What you make of this course however, is ultimately entirely up to you.
